GER 409 - Prac German Teaching
1-3 cr, CRN 26672

Friday 12:00-1:50pm, Friendly Hall 221

Interested in a fun skill-building internship for the opportunity to use your German language skills? In collaboration with Eugene schools, the Department of German and Scandinavian is excited to offer a German-teaching internship program for dedicated undergraduate majors or minors in German who enjoy working with children and possess a high proficiency in the language. GER 409 students employ new and fun-driven teaching approaches in settings from Pre-School through sixth grade levels, and will act as ambassadors for GERSCAN working towards our mission of promoting global citizenship across all curriculums.

The program will run through both Winter and Spring terms of 2019. In order to prepare for the assignment, students will receive preparatory training during the Winter Term, followed by 4-5 weeks of teaching during Spring Term, and around the sixth week students will present a report about their teaching experiences.

All interested applicants should submit a brief resume and a short statement (1-2 pages) explaining your interest in this project and your qualifications. Priority application deadline is due to Dorothee Ostmeier by Friday, November 9th, 2018.

This course counts towards the German Major as a language course and/or SLAT certificate. For more information, contact Dorothee Ostmeier at: ostmeier@uoregon.edu
