New Media and Culture

Certificate in New Media and Culture

This multidisciplinary program features an array of courses on the history, criticism, aesthetics, and production of new media technologies, blending scholarly research on new media topics with practical experience creating new media content using digital research tools. For more information, visit the certificate website. (http://newmediaculture.uoregon.edu)