Master of Arts and Master of Science in Environmental Studies

The Environmental Studies Program offers graduate study leading to the degrees of master of arts (MA) or master of science (MS) in environmental studies, and an interdisciplinary doctor of philosophy (PhD) degree in environmental sciences, studies, and policy.

Master of Arts Degree in Environmental Studies

The master of arts degree requires demonstrated proficiency in a second language.

Code	Title	Credits
Environmental studies graduate core sequence [1]		9
Concentration area course work [2]		24
Electives		12
Thesis or terminal project [3]		12
Total Credits		57

1. First year.
2. Graduate-level courses related to environmental studies in each of two 12-credit concentration areas.
3. Public defense or presentation required.

Master of Science Degree in Environmental Studies

Code	Title	Credits
Environmental studies graduate core sequence [1]		9
Concentration area course work [2]		24
Electives		12
Thesis or terminal project [3]		12
Total Credits		57

1. First year.
2. Graduate-level courses related to environmental studies in each of two 12-credit concentration areas.
3. Public defense or presentation required.