Academic Resources and Student Services

Administrative units at the University of Oregon provide a network of student services that support success in the classroom and challenge students to develop as individuals through an array of cocurricular experiences.

Emergencies

Many support services, including the Office of the Dean of Students (https://dos.uoregon.edu/) (541-346-3216), the University Health Center (https://health.uoregon.edu/) (541-346-2770), and University Health Center Counseling Services (https://counseling.uoregon.edu/) (541-346-3227) provide emergency aid to students during regular office hours—8:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m., Monday through Friday.

Counseling Services offers a crisis line staffed at all hours by mental health professionals, and the University Health Center offers a health nurse advice line when the center is closed (541-346-2770, then press 1). In addition, a 24-hour, round-the-clock crisis line is available for those seeking support after experiencing sexual violence (541-346-7233).

In case of any other emergency, call 911 or the UO Police Department (541-346-2919).

To help students succeed in navigating the rigors of competitive higher education, the University of Oregon offers an array of support programs and resources for dedicated scholars in their quest for academic excellence.
