Forensic Anthropology Minor

Forensic Anthropology is the study of human remains for medicolegal purposes, relying on facets of human anatomy, skeletal biology, human behavior, taphonomy, and pathology. Forensics applies these sciences to the legal process. This minor in Forensics Anthropology is intended to complement a major in another discipline.

Minor in Forensic Anthropology

16 of the 24 credits used to fulfill the minor requirements must be taken for a letter grade and passed with a grade of C- or better.

No more than 4 credits can be used to fulfill the minor requirements if taken and passed with a grade of D-, D, or D+.

No more than 4 credits can be used to fulfill the minor requirements if taken and passed with a grade of Pass.

Code	Title	Credits
Required Core Courses:		8
ANTH 270	Introduction to Biological Anthropology
ANTH 176	Introduction to Forensic Anthropology
Choose three courses from the following:		12
ANTH 366	Human Osteology Laboratory
ANTH 376	Decoding Your Genome
ANTH 473	Advanced Forensic Anthropology
ANTH 474
ANTH 475	Regarding Remains
ANTH 479	Taphonomy: Bones, Bugs, and Burials
Electives - Choose one course from the following: [1]		4
ANTH 145	Principles of Archaeology
ANTH 471	Zooarchaeology: [Topic]
Total Credits		24

[1] Students may also select an additional course from the second section to satisfy the electives section.