1460 Glory Ridge Ct.
Salem, OR 97304
(503) 559-3769
gdavis@msmagazine.com

Genevieve Bonner Davis

Professional Bio

Highly motivated and detail-oriented historian, writer, and researcher with an M.A. in History from Portland State University, specializing in U.S. women's history, gender and sexuality, Black feminism, intersectionality, and reproductive justice. Proven experience in managing end-to-end digital publication pipelines, translating archival research into public pedagogical tools, and conducting rigorous fact-checking as an Editorial and Archive Fellow for Ms. Magazine. Experienced in research advisory, content creation, and collaborative project management with a passionate commitment to deconstructing systemic forces that undermine bodily autonomy and to being a bridge between academia and public activism.

EXPERIENCE

Ms. Magazine Editorial/Archive Fellow | January 2026 - Present

- On the archive side, responsibilities include archival excavation and creating Ms. Classroom resource guides and materials. Tasks involve translating journalistic content into pedagogical tools for university-level instruction and offering Ms. Classroom workshop support, planning and execution.
- Manage the end-to-end production of the digital "War on Women" monthly report, including all research, writing, and fact-checking. Demonstrate editorial proficiency through content development, substantive editing, and rigorous verification for digital publication.
- Support and attend academic conferences as Ms. Classroom representative. Networking and speaking opportunities to promote the Ms. Classroom archive, resources and mission.

Advisor to the Women’s Foundation of Oregon Research Committee | September 2025 - Present (volunteer)

- As a Research Advisory Group Member, provide crucial, timely review and guidance on the project's timeline, research format, and deliverables to ensure alignment with the standards set by the Research Committee and Women's Foundation of Oregon leadership.

Editorial Assistant | Women and Social Movements Journal Since 1600-2000 | September 2024-August 2025

- Contributed to the editorial process through copy editing and formatting articles.
- Developed and managed content for Instagram.
- Maintained and updated the journal's database.
- Implemented social media marketing strategies to increase visibility and engagement.
- Provided administrative support to the editorial team.
- Engaged in in-person networking at academic events and conferences.

Academic Editor/Juror | Portland Young Historian Conference | March-April 2024

- Member of a four-seat Jury. Responsible for reading, editing, grading, and providing extensive feedback on undergraduate/high school history research papers. Worked with fellow jurors to determine the best papers and divide them into themed academic panels for the conference. This was a temporary position. I applied, interviewed, and was paid for my services.

Airbnb Manager | August 2022 – September 2023

- Managed efficient and timely turnover of rental properties to meet strict deadlines for guest arrivals, demonstrating strong time management and organizational skills.
- Maintained a high standard of cleanliness and preparation, showcasing attention to detail and commitment to quality.
- Independently tracked check-in and reservation schedules, highlighting responsibility and organizational abilities.
- Communicated effectively (potentially with hosts or guests regarding property readiness or issues), demonstrating communication skills.

Marketing Director and Office Manager | Law Offices of Gary L. Fales | May 2005 – April 2007

- Developed and implemented marketing strategies across various media platforms.
- Managed all aspects of large-scale informational seminars, demonstrating strong organizational, planning, and communication skills.
- Oversaw office operations and managed administrative functions.
- Led the hiring and training of new employees.

- I progressed from paralegal to executive assistant, gaining experience in legal documentation and client communication.

EDUCATION

Portland State University, Portland, OR

Master of Arts in History, 2026

Areas of Interest: US Women's History, History of Gender and Sexuality, Black Feminism, Intersectionality, Reproductive Justice, Left-Wing Activism, and Immigration.

Thesis Title: Intersectionality and Insurgent Citizenship: Women of Color Feminism in 1970s New York City

Thesis Research: In this work, I trace the intellectual and archival history of intersectionality theory and how BIWoC feminist thought offers a way to reconsider "identity status." I posit that those denied full citizenship, or those who actively resist its traditional markers, claim an alternative "insurgent citizenship." A model of citizenship that honors embodied ethics, centering phenomenology, community, and relationality as political acts that exist alongside, and often in tension with, nation-state citizenship.

University of Nevada, Las Vegas, NV

Bachelor of Arts in Social Sciences, 2009

Accepted into the University of Oregon Doctoral Program for Fall 2026

AWARDS/ACHIEVEMENTS

- Recipient of the 2025 Portland State University Lauren Banasky Research Grant.
- Presenter at the 2025 Western Association of Women Historians Conference.
- Presenter at the 2025 Association of African American Social Life and History Conference.
- Published review of Fierce Desires: A New History of Sex and Sexuality in America by Rebecca Davis in the Women and Social Movements Since 1600-2000 Journal.
- Published contributor at Ms. Magazine.
    - Monthly column writer for the War on Women Report
    - Voices From Dilley: The Stolen Ordinary of Detained Children
    - A Movement Responds: Leaders Rally Around Dolores Huerta After Chávez Allegations
- Completed the Fact-Checking Fundamentals Seminar by the International Fact-Checking Network, winter 2026.

- Completed the Race, Class Narrative Workshop through We Make the Future, winter 2026.
- Participant of the competitive Ms. Writing for the Popular Press Workshop Spring/Summer 2026.