TEACHING AND RESEARCH INTERESTS:

Self-regulation of food craving and other appetitive states, brain function and structure associated with individual differences in affect and self-regulation, assessment of behavioral and neural mechanisms underlying intervention effects, prediction of health behaviors via laboratory assessments of behavior and brain activity, assessment of self-regulation in preschool, prediction of school readiness and health behaviors, parental influences on self-regulation development.

EDUCATIONAL RECORD:

2011 Doctor of Philosophy, Stanford University, June 2011. Major area of study: Psychology. Emphasis: Affective Science.

2003 Bachelor of Arts, University of Pennsylvania, May 2003. Majors: Biological Basis of Behavior, Psychology.

EMPLOYMENT HISTORY:

2022-present Evergreen Associate Professor
School Psychology Programs, Special Education & Clinical Sciences Department,
College of Education, University of Oregon
Prevention Science Graduate Programs, Counseling Psychology and Human Services Department, College of Education, University of Oregon
Health Promotion Research Cluster,
Prevention Science Institute, University of Oregon

2016-2022 Evergreen Assistant Professor
College of Education, University of Oregon

2015-2016 Translational Research Scientist
Stress Neurobiology and Prevention Laboratory (Dr. Phil Fisher)
Prevention Science Institute, University of Oregon

- 2011-2015 Postdoctoral Researcher (Drs. Jennifer Pfeifer and Elliot Berkman)
 Psychology Department, University of Oregon
- 2003-2005 Research Assistant and Lab Manager (Drs. Godfrey Pearlson and Vince Calhoun)
 Olin Neuropsychiatry Research Center, Institute of Living at Hartford Hospital

TEACHING EXPERIENCE:

- 2016-present College of Education, University of Oregon
- 2006-2011 Teaching Assistant, Department of Psychology, Stanford University

Courses Taught:

Undergraduate courses in personality and individual differences. Graduate courses in social science research methods, biological aspects of behavior, cognitive and affective aspects of behavior, introductory neuroscience for the social sciences. Additional teaching assistant experience in courses including longevity, interventions, cognitive neuroscience, clinical psychology, and introductory psychology.

G. External Funding

Prevention Research Center: Parenting Among Women Who Are Opioid Users
National Institutes of Health, National Institute on Drug Abuse (NIDA P50 DA048756-01).
Leslie Leve and Phil Fisher, Co-Principal Investigators

Nicole Giuliani, Project 1 Co-Investigator

8/2019 – 5/2024, $10,069,677, funded

Goal: Evaluate behavioral and neural mechanisms underlying effects of the FIND video coaching intervention on mothers parenting in the context of opioid addiction.

RCT of FIND Video Coaching Intervention for Caregivers Facing Economic Adversity
National Institutes of Health, Eunice Kennedy Shriver National Institute of Child Health and Human Development (NICHD R01 HD094831)

Philip Fisher, Principal Investigator

Nicole Giuliani, Co-Investigator

2/2019 – 1/2024, $2,497,990, funded

Goal: Randomized controlled trial evaluating the behavioral and neural mechanisms underlying the effects of the FIND video coaching intervention on low-income caregivers of young children.

Quantifying the Impact of Mothers on Preschoolers' Food-Related Self-Regulation and Overconsumption of Unhealthy Food

Medical Research Foundation of Oregon, New Investigator Grant.

Nicole Giuliani, Principal Investigator

9/2018 – 8/2019, $40,000, funded

Goal: Evaluate the effects of mothers' mental health, self-regulation, and parenting on food-related self-regulation and food consumption in their preschool-aged children.

Unique Contributions of Parent and Child Self-Regulation, Parenting, and Environmental Stress to School Readiness in Preschoolers

Society for the Study of School Psychology (SSSP), Early Career Research Award

Nicole Giuliani, Principal Investigator

9/2018 – 8/2019, $20,000, funded

Goal: Assess the degree to which measures of self-regulation correlate between parents and children and how parenting behavior and environmental stress affect the associations.

Reducing Craving for Cancer-Promoting Foods via Cognitive Self-Regulation

National Institutes of Health, National Cancer Institute (NCI R21 CA175241)

Elliot Berkman, Principal Investigator

Nicole Giuliani, Co-Investigator

9/2014 – 8/2017, $398,750, funded

Goal: Develop and evaluate the efficacy of a values-based intervention delivered via text message on the craving for and consumption of foods known to increase cancer risk.

Neural Correlates of Emotion Reactivity and Regulation During Puberty: Effects of Hormones, Self-Perceptions, and Age

Medical Research Foundation of Oregon, New Investigator Grant

Jennifer Pfeifer, Principal Investigator

Nicole Giuliani, Fellow

12/2011 – 11/2012, $39,978 funded

Goal: Investigate the associations between neural correlates of emotion reactivity and regulation and sex hormones in adolescent girls

H. Internal Funding

Fear and Restrictive Child Feeding: Essential Science to Inform Intervention Development

University of Oregon Trustee Foundation Excellence Grant

Nicole Giuliani, Principal Investigator

9/2024 – 8/2026, $49,997, funded

Goal: Investigate the role of fear in the association between parental experience of weight-based discrimination and use of restrictive feeding practices

Differential Impact of Socioeconomic Status, Parenting Stress, and Self-Regulation on Immune Health in Mothers of Young Children

University of Oregon Center for the Study of Women in Society, Faculty Research Grant

Nicole Giuliani, Principal Investigator

6/2018 – 5/2019, $6,000, funded

Goal: Evaluate the relative associations between objective measures of socioeconomic status, self-reported parenting stress, and self-regulation assessments on immune health in mothers

Unique Contribution of Parenting Behaviors to Preschooler Self-Regulation and Associated Outcomes

University of Oregon Vice President for Research and Innovation, Faculty Research Award

Nicole Giuliani, Principal Investigator

5/2018 – 4/2019, $5,500, funded

Goal: Investigate the degree to which observationally coded parenting behavior mediates the association between assessments of self-regulation and health outcomes in preschoolers
